Newry residents question impacts of Powder Ridge

Potential impact on roads, ground water, visual aesthetics and the town's tax rate were the major concerns of approximately 40 Newry residents who turned out for Monday evening's public hearing on the proposed Powder Ridge subdivision.

Glover Development Corporation has proposed the 100-lot/99-condominium-unit development for a 360-acre parcel of land located between the Sunday River and Bear River valleys. It will be the largest such development ever undertaken in the town, and could mean as many as 1,600 people will be added to those expecting town services during peak periods of the ski season.

The town's planning board has been reviewing the subdivision application and is expected to make a decision on it within the next two months, according to Chairman Burt Mills.

The audience at Monday's public hearing peppered the developers with 65 questions about various aspects of the plan—most of them concerning roads, water, appearance and taxes.

Much of the proposed parcel of land is quite steep, necessitating a convoluted road layout that would be expensive to plow and maintain. If the roads in the subdivision eventually become town roads—as is planned—Newry taxpayers would foot this bill.

Mr. Mills told the hearing that the planning board members had walked the path of the lower portion of the road, and the members unanimously agreed the route was too steep to provide appropriate access to the subdivision.

Tom Radsky, of Main Land Development (the project's consultant), said the developers were negotiating with abutting landowners in an attempt to come up with a more acceptable access route.

Much of the meeting was taken up by a discussion of the peak-based septic systems that would be used in the project.

Woodstock selectmen approve contract for new town garage

Work is expected to begin soon on Woodstock's new town garage.

The town's Board of Selectmen recently approved a contract of $100,000 for constructing the new facility, which will house the highway department, fire department and a Tri-Town Rescue ambulance.

The winning bid for the project was submitted by Construx, Inc., of Plymouth, N.H. In all, 16 bids were received, ranging from $150,000 to $230,000.

Town Manager Vern Maxfield said the town's selectmen chose the Construx bid because they felt the company would produce a good quality building and maintain a good working relationship with the town.

Actual work on the building is expected to begin as soon as the highway department finishes clearing the site of debris from the former Woodstock Elementary School and its gymnasium.

The town manager said the building is scheduled to be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1.

A new access road from Church Street is also planned to be ready for use by that date.

AN UNWARY SPECTATOR (or Sesame Street character) stood a good chance of getting knocked down as 88 young racers took off at a sprint at the start of the 1-mile kids' race last Saturday.

Mollycodd Day draws thousands to Bethel Common

Once again, Mollycodd Day got everyone out of their homes, away from the VCRs and lawn mowers, and onto the Bethel Common. Long-time observers of the annual July holiday, commented that while there were a few thousand souls in attendance, the numbers didn't compare with the 5,000-person attendance recorded a couple of summers ago.

Nonetheless, those who did show up witnessed one of the longer Mollycodd Day parades, which was highlighted by the Sesame Street characters. (The costumes were provided by WCBB, while local residents took on the roles.) Also in the parade, and on the Common, were members of the Maine Vietnam Veterans Vigil Committee, who came to stand vigil for the 17 Maine soldiers, sailors and airmen (including two from this area) still missing in action after the Vietnam War.

Princess Mollycodd, who marched in the parade, was Stephanie Crockett.

See photos, pages 4 & 5

Prior to the parade, the Chamber of Commerce organized foot races: a one-mile race for kids and a five-mile race for grownups. After the parade, action shifted to the Common, where the main interest was in food and in the woodsmen's competition.

Adjacent to the Common, Ronald McDonald entertained a crowd of youngsters, while teams from area medical services entertained bystanders on Broad Street with the annual nurses' bed race. The Bethel Area Health Center, which hosted the event, also won the event.

Winners of the other competitions are listed below.

When all the competition was over, and most of the eating was done, people sat or strolled on the Common, listening to—and dancing to—live country and western music. At 9:30, the sky was lit up by a half-hour-long fireworks display, following which the music started up again, lasting until 11 p.m.

In the morning, members of the various service organizations that hosted the annual affair were back on the Common, cleaning up the residue of the day before and putting away their booths and banners for another year.

Mollycodd Classic

In the five-mile Mollycodd Classic, which saw 80 runners head down Main Street to Vernon, thence up the back side of Paradise and down to Broad Street to finish at The Bethel Inn, the winning male was Kevin McDonald, of Lovell—repeating his victory of last year. The winning female was Joan Lavin, of Portland.

McDonald's time was 27 minutes and seven seconds. Coming in second overall among the men was Greg Taylor, of Randolph, N.H., in 27:55; third overall was Norman DeRoche, of West Peru, in 28:07.

Ms. Lavin's winning time was 34:51. Runner-up among the women overall was Kate Wright, of Seattle, Wash., who finished in 35:51. Third overall was Elizabeth Bolduc, of Cape Elizabeth, in 36:14.

In the separate age categories, the top finishers were as follows:

15-19 men: Will Sweetser, Auburn, 28:30; Stephen Friel, Wilton, 29:44; Nathan Miserech, Andover, 30:08.

15-19 women: Cynthia Peters, Rumford, 46:37.

20-29 men: Mitchell Luvering, Littlefield, 28:25; Kevin Connor, Newfield, 28:45; Thad Thorne, Conway, N.H., 30:32.

20-29 women: Kate Wright, Seattle, Wash., 35:51; Elizabeth Bolduc, Cape Elizabeth, 36:14; Mary Rossi, Bryant Pond, 36:22.

30-39 men: Kevin McDonald, Lovell, 27:07; Greg Taylor, Randolph, N.H., 27:55; Norman DeRoche, West Peru, 28:07.

30-39 women: Barbara Dunham, Bethel, 39:14; Bernice Coddige, Bethel, 39:27; Sharon Beck, Bethel, 40:09.

40-49 men: Mike Simeneau, Jay, 30:11; Wayne Newton, Jay, 31:32; Michael Beaudoin, Waterville, Mass., 32:43.

40-49 women: Joan Lavin, Portland, 34:51; Ruth Feeeney, Bethel, 44:20; Linda Reid, Somerville, 46:11.

50-over men: Bob Payne, Raymond, 29:16; Dillon Gilles, Bethel, 33:12; John Howe, North Waterford, 33:35.

50-over women: Diane Olsen, Eagle, Idaho, 43:49; Christiane Sievers, Pittsburg, Pa., 46:54.

In the kids' one-mile race, which went down Main Street and up Mason Street, starting and finishing on Broad Street, the overall boy winners were Gregory Friel, of Wilton, Adam Taylor, of Locke Mills, and Mitch Adams, of West Paris.

Bicyclists raise $175,000 on recent three-day trek

Four hundred twenty-two bicyclists rode 180 miles from the Sunday River Ski Resort, in Newry, to the Trade Winds, in downtown Rockland, last month. The three-day trek by the bicyclists raised money to support the work of the American Lung Association of Maine and its work for clean air and healthy lungs.

The participants raised a total of $175,000, making the "Trek Across Maine" the single largest lung association fundraising trek in the country. The trek was a success because of its numerous volunteers and its sponsors: Sunday River Ski Resort, Rainbow Bicycle, Fleet Bank, and Arby's. Also lending support were the Thomaston Fire Department, Hannaford Brothers, Krisway truck leasing, Nabisco, Yello-Glo bananas, Ricker Orchards, the Trade Winds and the Ham Radio Operators, of Maine.

State Supreme Court will hear appeal of Saunderson's conviction

In September, the Maine Supreme Court is expected to hear arguments on Alfred H. Saunderson's appeal of his conviction for murdering his second wife, Joan, in 1981.

In August of 1987, police investigators, acting on a tip, discovered Joan Saunderson's decomposed body buried beneath the basement of the couple's former home on Bird Hill Road, Bethel. An autopsy revealed she had been shot twice at close range by a shotgun.

Last November, a Knox County jury found Mr. Saunderson guilty of the murder. He was later sentenced to 50 years in prison and is presently serving that term in the state prison at Thomaston.

Mr. Saunderson has consistently maintained his innocence. He admits to burying Joan Saunderson's body in the basement and covering the grave with concrete, but he claims she committed suicide.

His new attorney, William Masselli, of Andover, described the state Supreme Court appeal as the first step in a process that could eventually lead to the U.S. Supreme Court. "We will pursue this as far as the law allows," he said.

The defense brief filed by attorney Masselli argues that the state shifted the burden of proof to the defendant and that there was not sufficient evidence to support the "guilty" verdict. The brief also argues a number of evidentiary points, the attorney said.

If the appeal is successful, the convicted man could be granted a new trial or have his conviction overturned.

If the appeal is denied, attorney Masselli said he will pursue it through both state and federal post-conviction review processes and through the appellate court system.

The overall girl winners were Janel Ippolito, Rumford Point; Natasha Segool, Suffield, Conn., and Mary Jo Reed, of Auburn. There were 88 youngsters racing.

By category, the winners were:

8-under, boys: Justin Easter, Jay, 7:04; Jeremy Curley, Bryant Pond; 7:36; Doug Wing, South Paris, 8:07.

8-under, girls: Sarah Poirier, Mechanic Falls, 8:52; Heather Roderick, Newry, 9:22; Heather Best, Bethel, 9:36.

9-11 boys: Brett Christie, Rumford, 6:30; Justin Segool, Suffield, Conn., 6:32; Brian Pratt, Livermore Falls, 6:45.

9-11 girls: Janel Ippolito, Rumford Point, 6:42; Natasha Segool, Suffield, N.H., 7:01; Sarah Coddige, Bethel, 9:30; Kristen Bancroft, Bethel, 11:33.

Sponsors of the races were Federal Distributors, CMP, Jack Frost Shops, Seltzer & Rydholm, Groan & McGurn. Award donors were Sunday River, Bethel Inn, Bonanza Pottery, Sudbury Inn, Port Sports, Fashion Basket, River View, Chapman Inn, True North Adventureware, Bread & Butter Bake Shop, Brooks Bros., Maine Line Products, and Bethel Craftworks.

Frog Jumping

In the frog jumping competition, which had well over 100 youthful competitors, the winning frog was coached by Janice Hersey. The frog compiled a total of 118 inches on his (her?) three jumps. Second place went to the frog of Jaime Tanguay, with 117 inches, and third was the frog of John Tester, 116½ inches.

Fiddlers Contest

In the Fiddlers Contest, first-place went to Jodi Marlanche, second was Sarah Michel and third was Jodi Scott. Jodi also won the trick and fancy competition. Rachel Stowell won the junior

Big Apple store approved for Railroad St. site

Ripley and Fletcher Co., the new owner of what had been Charlie's Gulf, on Railroad Street, last Wednesday won permission from the Bethel Planning Board to add a Big Apple convenience store to the service station.

The retail space in the store will be 653 square feet. Most of the construction for the store has already been completed under a building permit approved for general expansion of the service station. However, since the store would be a change of use, the Planning Board had to grant a Site Plan permit before the store could operate.

The board members were somewhat concerned about signs at the station. Dennis Doyon said there are already too many A-frame signs advertising Cokes and other products. "That's no better than the signs we complained of at Port Sports last winter," he told station manager Frank Gibson. However, he

Citizen sold to owners of Sun

The Bethel Citizen has been sold to James Costello, Sr., of Lewiston. The Costello family owns the Lewiston Sun-Journal and recently purchased the Irregular, a weekly newspaper in Kingfield. The Citizen has been printed by the Sun-Journal for the past 4½ years.

The sale took place yesterday afternoon (Tuesday) in Lewiston.

Mr. Costello said he plans to run The Citizen as it has been run, a community newspaper serving central Oxford County. The newspaper office will remain in Bethel village. The Citizen Press print shop will continue to serve the printing needs of area businesses and individuals, and the stationery store will continue to provide the items that local customers have come to expect over the years.

No staff changes are being contemplated, Mr. Costello said, and Bernard Wideman, the current editor and publisher of The Citizen, will continue in those jobs.

Looking ahead, the new owner said he hopes to be able to use some of the personnel at the Lewiston paper to help The Citizen staff increase the amount of news and advertising the paper now carries.

The Citizen has gone through a number of different owners over the years, but has always remained in the Cole Block. The paper began in 1868 as The Bethel News, owned by Aked Billingswood, of Milan, N.H. In 1896, E.C. Bowler, of Palermo, purchased half-interest in the paper. In 1906, Mr. Bowler started The Rumford Citizen, in Rumford. In 1906, the Rumford and Bethel papers were combined as The Oxford County Citizen.

Fred Merrill purchased The Citizen in 1913, and he in turn sold it to David Fries, of Gorham, N.H., in 1920.

Carl L. Brown, who started working in the newspaper shop in 1911, purchased the paper in 1927. He was editor of the paper until his death, in April 1963.

Upon his death, ownership passed to his widow and later to his sons, who were the owners until 1984.

In September 1984, the paper was purchased by Citizen Press, Inc., whose principal owner was Bernard Wideman.

Other shareholders in that corporation were Mr. Wideman's father, Mervin Wideman, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; two friends, David and Lynne Chelimer, of Seattle, Wash.; and John K. Brown, of Bethel.

When Citizen Press, Inc. purchased The Citizen, it was being printed on a sheet-fed press, using type set on a

IT WON'T JUMP—Forest Duplessis had the misfortune of entering a recalcitrant frog in the Mollycoddle Day frog-jumping competition. Like Ferdinand the Bull, Forest's frog preferred to sniff the grass rather than compete on the field of honor. Forest's predicament provided one of the many humorous moments in what has become one of Mollycoddle Day's most popular events.

IT WON'T ROLL—The frog-jumping contest wasn't the only contest where some competitors unwittingly provided moments of comic relief for the audience. Above, Danny Myers takes some good-natured ribbing from his fellow loggers as he can't get his log moving during the Woodsmen's competition.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Time is a powerful force in our lives. Nothing is more elusive and mystical than time. It flees away every time we try to catch hold of it, every time we grasp it. It feels like nothing, certainly not like an object that you can touch or feel or sense. And yet it is one of the most potent forces in reality. It shapes our lives, and gives limits and structure to the on-going flux of reality.

There are different ways of giving meaning to time, of living in relationship to it. Some people live for the past, nostalgically reliving past experiences when life seemed to have meaning and value. Some live for the future, looking forward to some future time when life will be more fulfilled or happy. Some live for the present, trying to cram as much joy and satisfaction into each passing moment.

Each of these approaches has something to be said for it, but none is entirely satisfactory by itself. Memory is a wonderful human gift, but to live totally for memories is to drift aimlessly in a dreamlike ecstasy of nostalgia. It is to cheat the present and the future. Likewise, anticipation is a great gift, too, but to live only in anticipation of the future is to fritter one's life away in a fruitless wait for something that will never arrive. It is to cheat the present and the past.

This leaves living for the present as the third alternative. But what is the present but a meaningless abstraction, a brief eyeblink of time that is always passing away into the past? It is something that you can never grasp because the moment that you realize that it is here, it is already gone.

So what is the answer? How can we best deal with the ravages of time? I believe that the answer is to see each present moment as a manifestation of eternity. In this present moment is the fullness of God, the glory of heaven. We do not have to sit around nostalgically recalling the past, or restlessly anticipating the future, for eternity dwells in each moment of our lives, every moment that we are fully alive and aware of God's presence. As the poet William Blake wrote,

To see a World in a grain of sand,
And a Heaven in a wild flower;
Hold Infinity in the palm of your hand,
And Eternity in an hour.

We need not wait for eternal life. It dwells within our soul every moment of our lives.

Mollyockett Day 1989

THE CROWD ON MAIN STREET for the Mollyockett Day parade was happy to see the fire truck portion of the parade—because the firefighters (and children) on the trucks threw candy to the onlookers.

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR SPOTS on the Common, at least for the kids, was the fountain—into which someone had dumped soap to make a fountain-full of soap suds. Adults in the neighborhood of the fountain found the water fights and soapsud-throwing a bit nerve-wracking, however.

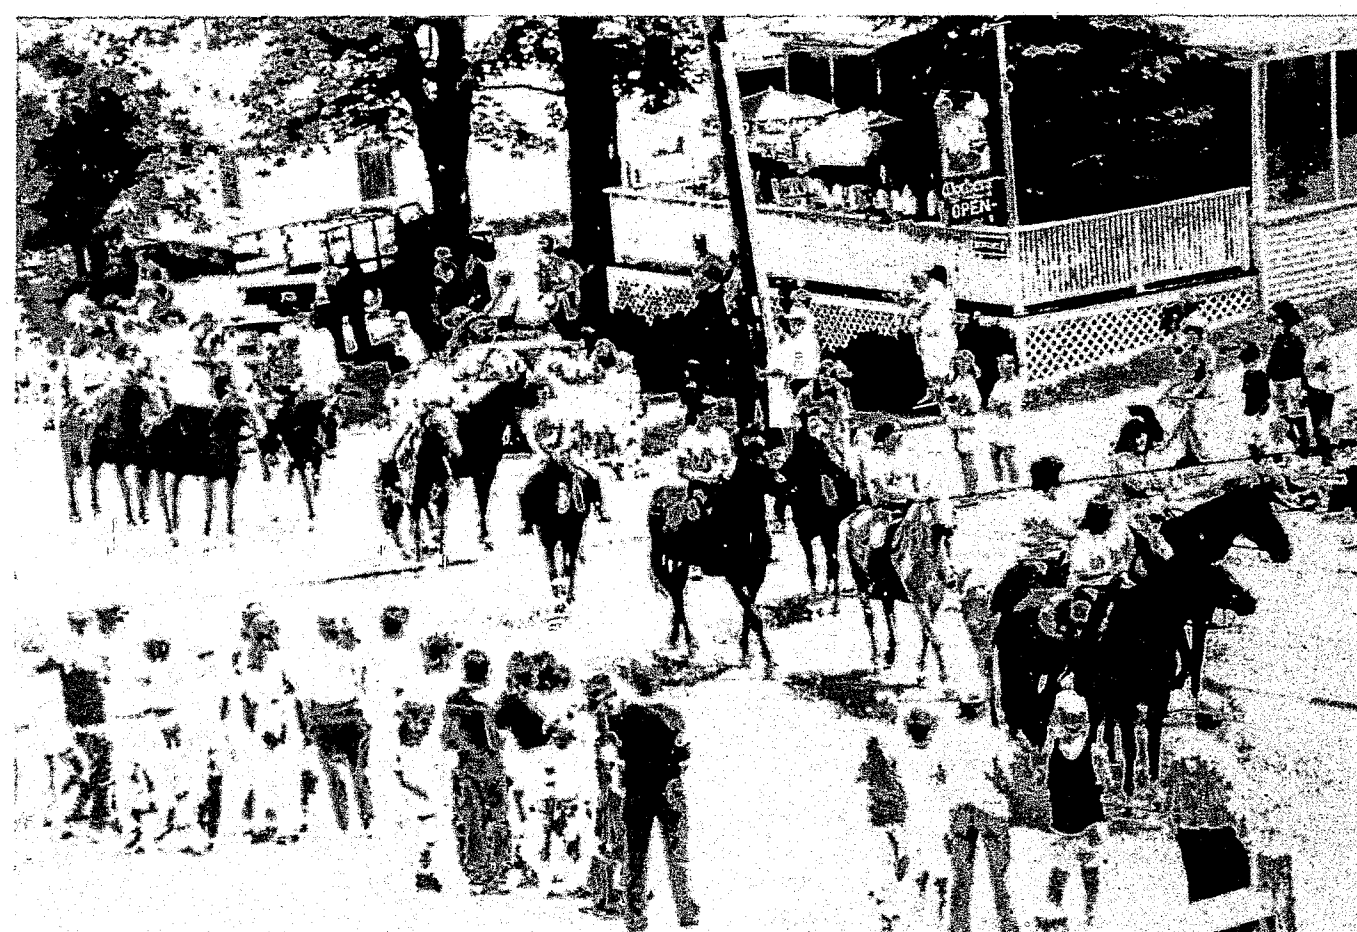

JAIME CARON LIKES NOTHING BETTER than getting his face painted. Doing the honors Saturday was Ted Lawrence.

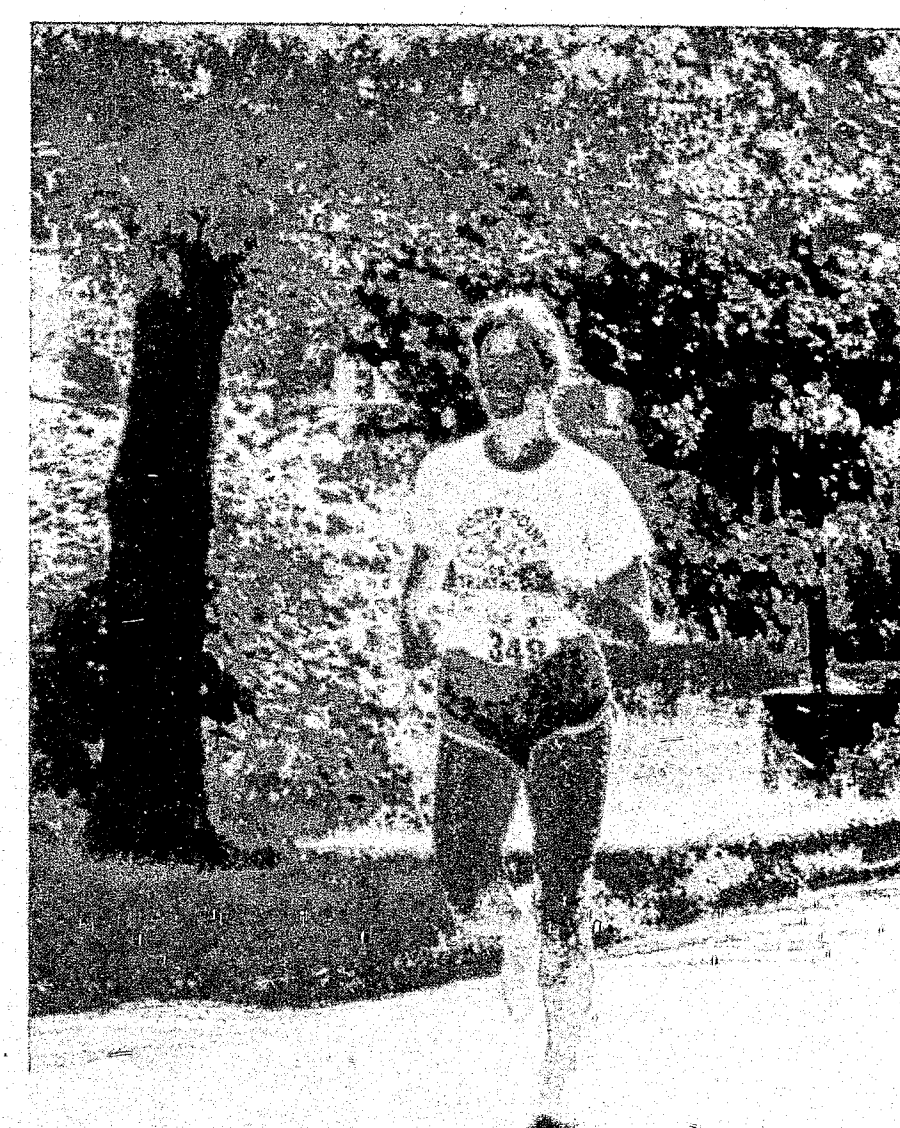

THE RIDE DOWN BROAD STREET in a hospital bed could give anyone a headache. "Patient" Lisa Crowell, part of the Bethel Rescue team, seems as if she didn't know whether to hold her head or hold onto the bed for dear life. The action was part of the fun of the Nurses' Bed Race, sponsored by the Bethel Area Health Center, whose team won the event.

SESAME STREET ON MAIN STREET—Thanks to WCBB (Channel 10), the Mollyockett Day parade this year featured Sesame Street characters, to the delight of children and adult onlookers alike.

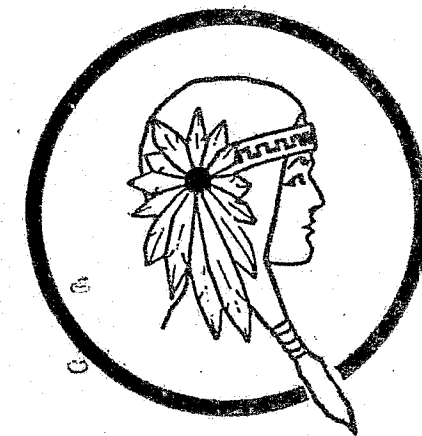

THE MOUNTED CONTINGENT of local horse lovers once again joined the Mollyockett Day parade, possibly signifying that "the best of the four seasons" so far as they're concerned is summertime, when they can saddle up.

FOLLOWING HER SHADOW, Mary Rossi, of Bryant Pond, seems to be enjoying Saturday's 5-mile race. She finished 4th overall among all women.

Mollyockett Day 1989

OFF AND RUNNING—80 racers took part in the Mollyockett Day Classic, a 5-mile race down Main Street, out Vernon Street, up the back side of Paradise, finishing in front of the Bethel Inn. The race attracts more participants each year.

FIRST PLACE AMONG WOMEN RUNNERS was won by Joan Lavin, of Portland, shown passing a number of men.

RONALD MCDONALD DREW THE (MOSTLY) UNDIVIDED ATTENTION of the younger set when he set up shop for his variety act.

MAKING LITTLE ONES OUT OF BIG ONES—Loggers Scott Berry and Dan Myers tackle both ends of a log the way a delicatessen slicer tackles salami: they made quick work of it. The action came at the conclusion of the Mollyockett Day Woodsmen's Competition.

THE TOP THREE WINNERS in the Woodsmen's Competition were Lumberjack-of-the-Year Jeff Fleet (center), flanked by 2nd place finisher Scott Berry (right) and 3rd place finisher Steve Cross (left).

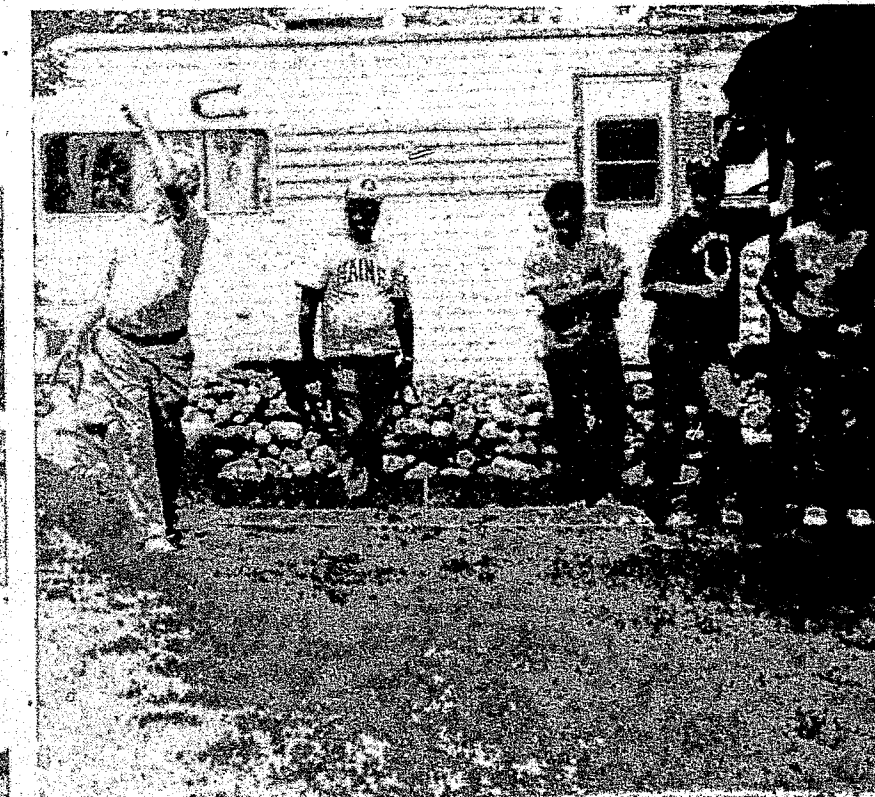

ALL ALONE—Kevin McDonald, of Lovell, had the road—and the race—all to himself as he cruised down Paradise on his way to Broad Street and the finish line.

THE OLD AND YOUNG OF IT at the Mollyockett Day foot races were represented by John Weir, 74 years old, from San Luis Obispo, Calif., and Kevin Zinchuk, 2½ years old, from Bethel. Mr. Weir ran in the 5-mile race, while young Zinchuk stuck to the 1-mile race.

THE CHAMP! Fresh from victory in the frog-jumping contest, Janice Hersey's frog basks in the sunlight and the limelight. This guy jumped a total of 118 inches in three tries.

A WICKED GOOD SHOE—Bob Gardner had one of the hot hands in the horseshoe throwing competition. But so did most of the other competitors, some of whom came from as far away as Vermont to take part in the event. In all, 14 two-man teams competed. The event was organized this year by George Gould and his daughter Karen. He termed it "a complete success." The only thing that might have made it better would have been participation from the well-known thrower from Kennebunkport. But Mr. Bush was in Paris (France).

By COLISTA MORGAN

Although I have been retired for many years, I often think of my years in "The Little Red Schoolhouse" as the song goes, only mine was white. I was 18 when I started to teach for one year but stayed for 43.

I remember my first day of teaching and the names of my fourteen pupils ranging in age from five to 14. Once upon a time this little school room held 32 pupils and nine grades. As I stood (seldom did I ever sit down) at the front with the American flag on one side of me and my desk on the other and the blackboard in the back; the children sat in rows with the smallest in front. The oldest were large, strong and helpful in many ways. Even to the very little ones, they were kind. In bad weather I often saw them help one of them across a puddle or through a deep drift by carrying her or him in front of the building and sometimes to the corner beyond. They always got help with their boots or coats also.

Then there came a day when the State Education Department came by and said, "Great things are happening in education. There are special teachers for arithmetic, reading, art and music. If you combine the schoolhouses then your children could have a great big school and your children could have all the advantages. Big yellow buses could carry your children right up to the door..." So parents voted to consolidate and the little red or white schoolhouses were abandoned.

Things went well at first in the big school. But after awhile, the State Education Department said that it wasn't providing the children with enough meaningful experiences. Then began the complaining that children weren't learning to read and write and figure, as well as they did in the little red schoolhouse. So the educators said, "We will try something new." So the upgraded primary was tried, where fast learners were not slowed by the slower pupils. I had never seen that happen anyway. One didn't get moved on to the next grade if he could not add three and five. So I wondered how this upgraded primary was different.

"We'll try more," the educator said. We will tear down walls in the new schools, so the children will be working together in one big room. That way there will be less peer group competition."

Was this new? Finally, an important educator came along, looked at the school and said, "This is good but not good enough. It's too big and the children are losing their identity, so what now?"

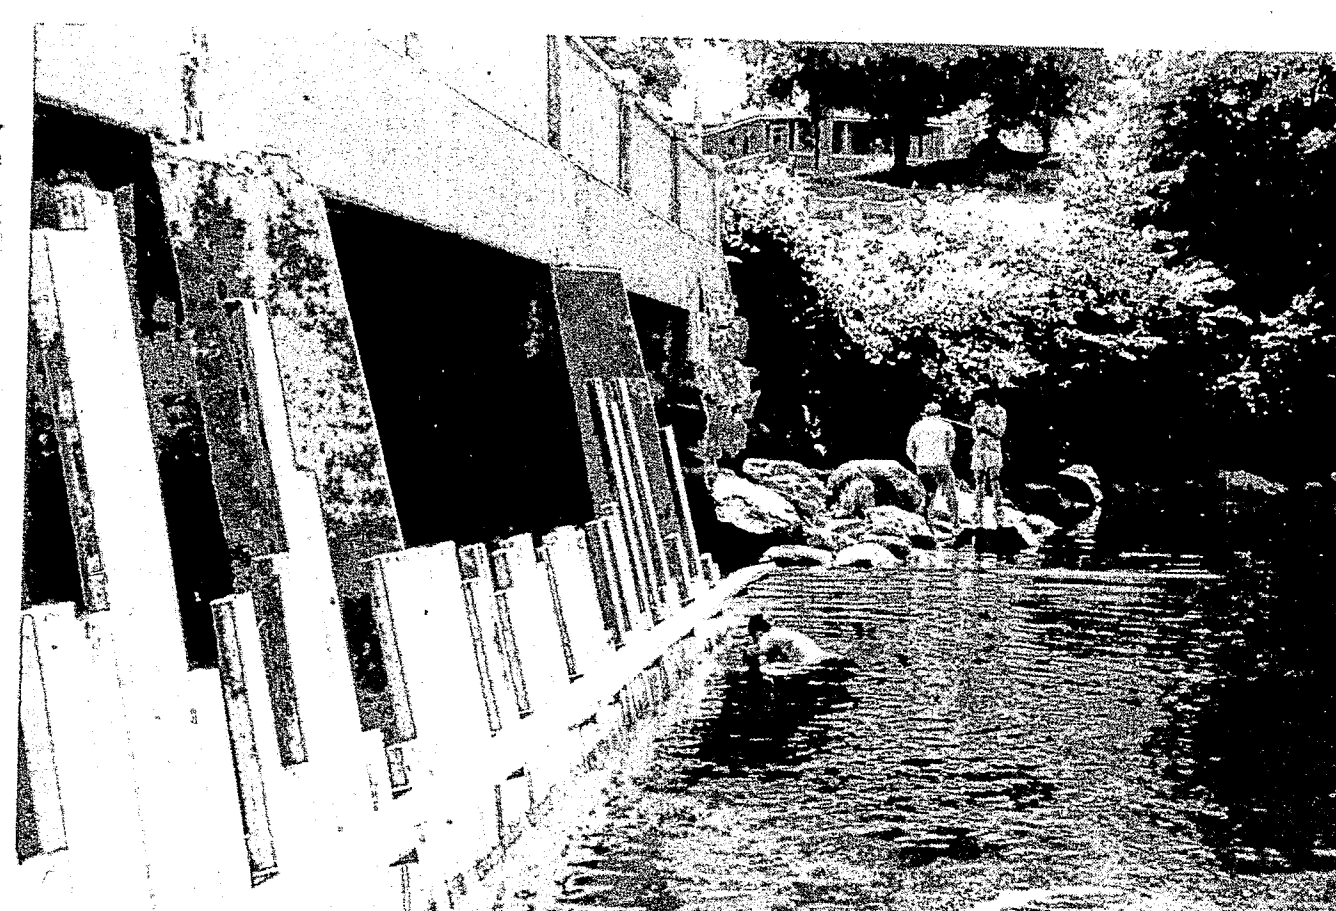

So I wonder. Will there again be, some day, a little red schoolhouse where children memorize or possibly learn the 18 counties of Maine by singing to the tune of "Yankee Doodle." Try it.

"Sixteen counties has our state, Cumberland and Franklin, Piscataquis and Somerset, Aroostook, Androscoggin, Sagadahoc and Kennebec, Lincoln, Knox and Hancock, Waldo, Washington and York, Oxford and Penobscot."

See how it goes. You'll remember them every time you hear the song "Yankee Doodle."

Will the next change be a complete cycle? It happens. Will it really be a one room schoolhouse? If so I do hope they paint it red; that is such a cheerful color.

COOL JOB ON A HOT DAY—As local youngsters fish from the far shore, Bill Murphy, foreman for Bancroft Contracting Corp., of South Paris, patches the temporary retaining dam that will hold back the Little Androscoggin River while a new rock dam is built on the site of the old grist mill dam in West Paris. The former wooden dam at the 40 feet deep and 6½ feet deep. Work on the new dam is expected to be completed this week.

Another week gone. How they fly by. Leonas and Fay went to the Art Show on Saturday and I stayed to mow my lawn.

On Sunday Robert, Jeri, Jenny, Ricky and his friend came for the day. Robert helped his father with the hay. Jeri came to take me to the farm where we all had dinner. When I came home I had locked myself out of the house so I had to find some way to get in. I did, but had repair work to do the next day.

On Tuesday, Ernest Mundt called on his way home from his brother's in South Paris. That evening the Holts and I went to supper at the home of David and Sally Holt, then stayed for the evening.

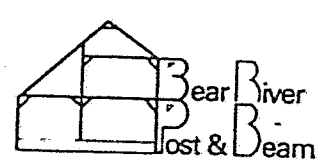

Tuesday morning Rena Curtis received word that her sister Ruth Collins had passed away. She had been ill for a very

4-H AUCTION JULY 23

On July 23, at 10 a.m., many devoted young 4-H'ers and 4-H leaders will be running around to ensure the success of their first community auction. This year's auction will be held on the Oxford County Fairgrounds with viewing at 8 a.m.

4-H in Oxford County consists of educational programs for youth, ages 6-19. The programs are primarily in a club structure and deal with all kinds of topics—everything from animals to teen problems. 4-H is non-profit and relies almost entirely on Oxford community support. The funds from this auction will not only go to supporting the traditional programs, but will look to the future, to see what can be offered through 4-H to help ensure happy and healthy futures for area children.

If you are interested in children and their lives, you might be interested in supporting 4-H on July 23 at the Oxford County Fairgrounds.

If you can make a donation of antiques, furniture, household goods, etc., contact the 4-H leader in the areas listed below.

By VIVA WHITMAN

A sunny beautiful morning after a rather cool night for being in July. Glad we got a little rain but we could use more. One would think that after all the rain we got this spring that it couldn't possibly go dry but it is getting that way. The rivers sure show it very much.

Did some freezing this last week as the greens were ready to be taken care of and got peas in the freezer also. We had our first peas on July 1 which we thought was pretty good. There are some peas that won't produce for us this year because of the damage that the woodchucks did. However, we don't think they will be doing any more as we think we have gotten rid of all of them now. Caught the last one in a trap that Russell set. Borrowed a couple from Alvin Yates and set them where we thought the chuck would be coming out of his hole and sure enough, he got caught by a hind leg so Russell and Lawrence took care of him. We are quite sure there were four of them to begin with, one under each of three buildings and the last one under the lumber pile that is out back. None of them seemed to dig a deep hole as far as we could see. Gas covered rags in the right places seemed to take care of two of them. I shot at him and thought I hit him. He disappeared so thought I didn't hit him as first thought but he hasn't come out and we have watched his hiding place all we possibly could. Now the last one has been caught so we feel better about it. They sure like garden stuff and can destroy so much in such a short length of time. Glad to be rid of them.

Went to the doctor's in North Bridgton last Thursday for a treatment. Been some better since. Peggy and I got groceries on the way home and did what other errands needed doing.

Friday was a busy day for Peggy as she took Mary Smith to a special senior citizen dinner at the restaurant in Bryant Pond and after that they went to an artist's home to see the work she does on portraits. Peggy said she does a fantastic job. They fully enjoyed the trip and Peggy recognized one of the pictures of her portraits in her album so it was especially nice.

In the evening of Friday, Peggy and Russell went to Mechanic Falls to dance at the Nickelodeon. Wynona and other friends were there also and they said they had a great time.

Saturday night was a dance at Oxford Grange Hall as well as a turkey supper. Peggy went to the dance but said there weren't too many there. They had had a good turn out for the supper as usual but not too many stayed for the dance.

Sunday was a fairly quiet day around here but on Monday Peggy went to Hermit Island with her daughter Loretta. Loretta had friends who were spending time there and went to visit them. Peggy knew the folks also and they had a good time even though it did rain a little.

Yesterday, Tuesday, Russell and Peggy went for the cholesterol screening at Stephens Memorial Hospital and when they got home she took me to Lewiston to the eye doctor. While in Lewiston we did a little shopping around, had lunch at Bonanza and then went to Wynona's home to get Kariann who is to be with me for a few days. We called on Peggy's daughter and husband, the Bernard Whites on the way home. Also stopped at Woolworth's on the way home for something we didn't find in the city. That is up to be the way's lot of times. One can find things at home that they can't find when they go shopping for them special. However, it is always fun to look elsewhere for things and see what new items one can see.

Got home to find that two of the baby birds out in a nest in our portico had gotten out of the nest and got killed dropping so far. We are sorry to have that happen as we were having a good time watching them. Russell says there are four little ones in the bluebird nest so hope all goes well for them. Have another nest of flycatchers out on the shed and hope all goes well for them.

Got to tell you that we had quite a discussion about the woodchucks when Russell put his old jacket and an old red flannel shirt out to try to get rid of a chuck. He thought the chuck was under the little house out back and we thought it would look queer to see the woodchuck come out wearing that old red flannel shirt. We each added something to the story of what he would look like and it was very amusing. However, the chuck wasn't under the building so guess he buried his old clothes for nothing unless something digs in there to find them and comes out wearing them. That would be a real picture.

Callers at the Lovejoys recently have been Glen Virge, from Nashua, N.H., Carl Roberts, of Locke Mills, and Tammy Farnum, from Bryant Pond. Not all came the same day but their calls were enjoyed.

Youth Night at West Paris Grange will be on July 20 with a 6:30 supper preceding the meeting. All grangers welcome and those who would like to come to the entertainment can wait for the program. Norman Decoteau will be entertaining for everyone's pleasure.

Next dance night will be August 5 so put that date on your calendar and come for a good time.

Hope everyone is keeping well this summer and enjoying the good weather. Take care and God bless.

In Memory of

Craig Paul
July 21, 1988

It is still all so clear even after one year that the skies will always be blue. It was so unfair and the answers not there, as to why it had to be you. But God has a reason no matter the season, who he takes in his arms so our memories of you will just have to do, till we all fly together again sometime. The ultimate wings are his. Dedicated to Craig and all our loved ones no longer with us but always in our minds. Forever remembered.

The Rolfs,
Phil, Jane,
Monica and Carrie

CARD OF THANKS

This 114-pound toge is about half the size of 10-year-old Tim Adams, of Bethel. Nevertheless, Timmy was able to boat him after a half-hour battle. The young fisherman got his prize catch trolling in Kezar Lake with his dad, Charlie. The Adams family has had good luck at Kezar. In June Charlie caught a toge that weighed 15 pounds 13 ounces.

Newry citizens thanked Newry residents who organized for participation in Maine Street '90 won recognition last Wednesday in a ceremony at the Newry Town Office. Maine Street '90's county director, Dick Rason, presented certificates to the committee members, citing their community spirit and plans for participation. He was assisted by State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel).

Receiving certificates for the town committee and five local organizations was Maine Street '90 Newry Chairwoman June Swan.

Newry committee members hope to initiate a bicycle and hiking trail along the Androscoggin River, from Newry to Bethel. The trail would link the two contiguous communities while providing an attractive recreation area for local residents.

Also anticipated are a variety of events to bring the community together, including Memorial Day services, an anniversary picnic and service for the Newry Community Church, the annual Halloween Party, and December tree lighting ceremonies. The community will also host Catherine Donnelly, of Newry, Ireland, in late August festivities this year.

Other Maine Street '90 plans include painting the town offices and the Sunday

River School, a special reunion for teachers and students of Newry schools, home beautification efforts, and enhanced town signage.

The Newry leaders in the Maine Street '90 program, aside from Mrs. Swan, are: Sylvia Wight, Owen Wight, Gil Seeley, Kevin Slater, Louise Tetley and Mary Morin.

Maine Street '90 was established last September by Governor John McKernan to celebrate community pride. The statewide program is designed to encourage residents to take stock of their town's assets and heritage, and to accomplish a tangible project to improve the community. Already, more than 190 communities from across the state have signed up to participate in Maine Street '90.

Also recognized last Wednesday was the Bethel Historical Society, widely known and respected for its numerous restoration projects, including the Dr. Moses Mason House. The society, which compiled a history of the Bethel airport for the 1988 Town Report, has proposed a pictorial history of Bethel as its contribution to the Maine Street '90 program.

LOOKING BACKWARD
10 Years Ago: The Bethel Water District installed one of two indicator valves on the main line from the Chapman Brook reservoir to town at the Twin Oaks Campground Area. This installation allows the crew to immediately shut off the water main without digging in case of an emergency. Bethel was selected as the center for the Maine Branch of the White Mountain National Forest Youth Conservation Corps. Sunday River Inn was serving as temporary headquarters for 40 enrollees from all over the state. William and Doris Slattery of West Paris celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Marriages: L.L. Christopher B. Baker and Mary Ann Chapin; Troy Jordan and Maryanna House.

Deaths: Winfield J. Robertson, Clayton L. Blake, Gertrude M. Roberts.

20 Years Ago: Work commenced on the so-called "Smith Bridge" over Pleasant River in West Bethel. The West Bethel Farm Team, under the direction of Rupert Grover, Jr., had a perfect record to date, leading in their fifth game when it was called due to rain. The Bethel Historical Society received 40 yards of pennies from Oliver and Alice Fales of Dorchester, Mass.

Marriages: Wendell H. Tyler and Mary E. Cole; Peter Howard and Candace Smith.

Deaths: Pearl W. Swan, Sherburn E. Stineford.

30 Years Ago: Arthur F. Lincoln and Sumner L. Burgess were included in a list of promotions in the woods department of the Oxford Paper Company. Ray and Annie Cotton celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Deaths: Carrie F. French, Agnes B. Brooks.

40 Years Ago: The Bethel School Survey Committee considered costs of reopening rural schools. At a special town meeting it was voted to accept a 10-year lease of land near Lover's Lane from Gould Academy as a recreational field. Marion Stallwood, instructor at Gould Academy, was making plans to depart for Japan to teach physical education for the U.S. Army. Phyllis Smith, wife of Jason Smith, of Vernon Street, was taken to Central Maine General Hospital following a tractor accident.

Deaths: Rodney H. Hanscom, Harlan R. Bean.

Marriages: J. Francis Howe and Wynona Morgan; John Forbes and Carolyn Bryant.

Deaths: Emory Blake.

50 Years Ago: The Oxford County Council of the American Legion held its annual field day at Littlefield Beach with about 150 members with families and friends also present. The Ass Bartlett family moved to the Haggood farm on the Songo Pond Road. Thaddeus Lutton of West Bethel escaped serious injury when he was dragged in the road by a frightened team.

Deaths: Catherine Carver, Charles Davis.

Deaths: Beryl M. Green.

Those who burn the flag are doing much more harm to themselves than to the flag.

Clayton Thompson hosted a cookout with the following as guests, Norma Collingwood, Dana Beulah and John Enman, Ava Beardsley, Claude and Pauline Lavallee, Pat, Horace and Jim Goodrum, Mark, Nancy and Casey Beardsley.

Avis Beardsley, of Raymond, has been a guest of her sister Norma Collingwood. A brother Dana Enman and family, of Louisiana, have been visiting for a few days.

The planning board met Monday, July 9 at the town office. There have been several resignations and new elections and the board now consists of five members and two alternates. Members are Pat Angevine, chairman, Arline Bernier, clerk, Arthur Couture, building inspector, Jim Yarnell and Bob Anderson.

This first get-down-to-business meeting included an outline of business to be conducted for the next three months. The chairman had gathered information which she presented to the group for approval. The meetings are scheduled for the second and fourth Mondays through October from 7:45 p.m. and are open to the public. Any questions or articles for discussion should be submitted in writing a week prior to the meeting.

Ed and Arlene Bernier, of De Soto, Texas, spent several days at Heritage Farm. Their daughter Maria Greene, Walter and daughter Kimberly spent a few days visiting.

Sidney Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Buck, of East Sumner, Philip and Juanita Korhonen were recent guests of the Berniers.

Ida Martell, of Colebrook, and Beverly Bylwa, of Lancaster, N.H., spent an afternoon visiting and counting bead kits for plant hangers.

The strawberry crop is very poor here this year. Hopefully 1990 will be better.

By CLARICE GIBSON

The weekend of July 8 was a lovely summer weekend. Frank left July 7 for Bonnetta and Saturday I went to Norway to my brother Johnny Allen's and sister Iva Holden also came over. Brother John had built himself a place on land the folks had given him and I had never been down to see it. Our sister, Iva Holden, also came to have dinner with us. Sunday Frank's sister Bobby and Eddie Pevear, stopped in after doing work on the cemetery at West Bethel. They couldn't stay until Frank came home. I was surprised when people told me but they said that the gardens really need rain. We have had quite a lot of wind and that helps dry out the ground. Guess people are through haying on this road. The smell of new mown hay is one of my favorite smells. Can't say it was so much so when one had to work helping my grandfather hay.

Tim Angevine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Angevine, left July 6 for Quinlan, Texas, as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barnes and family for a month. Marc Brown took Tim to Portland Jetport to catch his plane.

Amy and Mary Beth Hannon, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hannon, are playing summer basketball at Telstar two nights a week.

Edie Smith had vacation the week of July 8.

Jan Mason, daughter of Chuck and Kathy Mason, and Dawn Seames, daughter of Debbie Seames, left July 10 for the Nazarene Church Camp, Washington, with other young people of the church and Pastor John Clayton. They came back July 14.

Carol Mason went July 11 to her sister Terry Blake's and family, Augusta.

July 14 we all wish "Happy Birthday" to Grammie Murphy, Bridge Street. Sunday Brad and Fern Benson, Poland, and Teddy and Carol Benson, Augusta, had dinner and helped their mother, Sylvia Benson. Mr. and Mrs. George Bachelder, Hanover, also stopped in.

July 10 Louise Loring and I went to the Golden Maple, Gorham, N.H., where I was treated to a birthday dinner and Tuesday Evelyn Hilborn and I went to Norway on business and then she treated me to a belated birthday dinner at Country Way. Also July 10, George, Ira and Kristin came and Kristin brought over a cake so we had cake and ice cream.

Edward Riley, nephew of Althea Brown, with friends Everett and Beth, of East Hartford, Conn., visited his childhood home in Dixville Notch area and they stopped at Stan and Althea Brown's for lunch.

Stan, Althea Brown and Althea's brother, John Sweeney have painted the Brown's home this year.

The John Laban family had their sheep sheared and have put them in the pasture across the road.

The Bob and Ginny Keniston family were having a get-together at the camp on Songo. Tom, Melinda Remington and children were also there. David Keniston was driving the boat for some of the youngsters to waterski. The women starting during each other to try it. They did. I understand it was the first time for Melinda and over twenty years for Martha Bangs and Becky Shaw. Jody Keniston also waterskied. They all had a good time.

July 4 weekend the Bob Howe family went to his parents' Bud and Joan Howe's for a lobster and clam feed.

July 7 Bob and Linda Howe took Jon and Seth to Santa's Village in Jefferson, N.H.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert went to Raymond and Marge Coleman's camp in Oxford July 13.

I am not fully dressed until I adorn myself with a smile of joy.

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, Richard Felt, Lucille Robbins, Olive Risko, Johnny Howe and I attended West Paris Grange supper and Past Masters Night.

Edith Davis took me to Dr. Tehao at Lewiston for an eye appointment Thursday.

Lloyd Merryfield mowed my fields this weekend. It's a shame to leave this hay on the ground but no one seems to want it. Good farmers are scarce now I understand. Lloyd does a good job.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farrington, of Norway, called on Olive Davis Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cushman, Augusta, called Sunday afternoon. They had been taking a ride on their motorcycle all over Maine as it was such a lovely day. I probably should have said Western Maine.

Roger Benson fixed up the grape arbor for me. He, also, took up a butternut tree for Kris Miclon's mother which was under the arbor. Many thanks, Roger. I went to Bridgton Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews went to Denmark at 8 for strawberries, at 10 I was home and had the berries in the freezer by 11:30.

Cooks are around again. They came into the shed at night and bit holes in seven plastic gallon bottles that were full of miracle grow solution that were filled to put on the garden. The coon made holes in the top of some so there were only half gallon in three and the other were chewed at the bottom and liquid had run all over the shed. I had a small trap I had borrowed and it's too small. They tipped it over and got all the apples. They had sprung the trap, also. I think the coon is too big for the trap.

Several from this area attended the benefit supper held at Bryant Pond Grange hall for Larry Whitman who has been in the hospital lately.

Patricia Tibbetts had dinner with her mother, Esther Davis and Edith Deegan Sunday.

Joyce Hathaway attended the Art Festival at Norway Saturday.

Dale Buck is moving his trailer on 26 near his grandmother, Vera Buck this next week. He has been busy remodeling the trailer before moving.

The Willing Workers will be holding a food and lawn sale at the Union Church

PUBLIC SUPPER JULY 25

North Waterford Congregational Church, off Rts. 35 and 37, across from Tut's Store, will be having a public supper on Tuesday evening, July 25, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. The menu includes: homemade baked beans, American chop suey, casseroles, salads, brown bread, rolls, beverage and strawberry short cake. Adults $4.50 and children (12 and under) $2.25. The dinner is served buffet style.

In South Woodstock, Sat. July 29, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The next meeting of the Willing Workers will be held Aug. 8 at the Union Church at 7 p.m. All persons interested are invited to attend. Bring a friend.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

Around 60 Bethel Senior Citizens met on July 12, a beautiful day, for the annual picnic at Powell's Campground, in Hanover.

Following a brief business meeting, conducted by President Muriel Faudi, the cookout and buffet meal was enjoyed. Lindley Weiden and Tony Pugliese presided over the grill of hot dogs and hamburgers. A birthday cake by Leona Flint honored Eva Lane, Dot Onofrio, Laura Noyes, Bud Paine, Eva Perry, Celia Gorman, Maude Danforth, Grace Morrill and Ginny Walker.

Tickets for the afghan and lap robe were sold, with the winning tickets drawn at Mollycrock Day.

Plans are being made for a foliage trip, with lunch at the Balsams. The next meeting will probably be held at the Boiler Room in August. Watch for further notice in The Citizen.

The annual Paper Bag Auction with Peggy Coolidge as auctioneer and Betty Blake and Evelyn Reed assisting was held. The program was entertaining and profitable. Thanks are extended to Harold Powell for his hospitality.

Dr. Charles G. Hall,

SUMMER AUCTION AT SUNSET FARM—Friday's auction at Sunset Farm provided entertainment—and perhaps the chance to snap up a bargain—for 200 or more local residents, out-of-state vacationers, auction buffs and cold-eyed dealers. F.O. Bailey Antiquarians conducted the auction for Edie and Don Eddy, who have sold the farm and are moving to Pennsylvania. At least some of the contents of the spacious colonial home will remain here, however, since the farm's new owners, Dick and Wendy Penley, were successful bidders on a number of auction items.

Prayer to the Holy Spirit

Oh Holy Spirit, thou who art all knowing, who knowest every path that I may reach my goal, thou who givest me this divine gift of forgiving and forgetting wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life art with me, I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all your blessings and re-affirm once again that I never want to part from thee through the illusion of material things around.

My desire is to be with thee and at my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank you for your mercy on me and mine. (Persons should pray 3 consecutive days without ceasing petition. Within three days grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be.) Fulfill this prayer once grace is attained.
Grateful for grace attained. C.S.
